Data Analytics has been transformed by the data explosion. In the last two decades, data has exploded in quantity and quality; no longer are we simply collecting data, we now have data about data. As more data becomes available, learning how to effectively analyze and evaluate the data becomes increasingly important. The Visual Analytics approach helps data users incorporate and interpret their analysis results in the context of their own data and the users' research questions. This new approach helps to engage users in the data analysis process, and serves as a powerful catalyst for collaboration among data users, professionals, and consultants who work in scientific, business, government, and technical fields. This course provides a practical introduction to the Visual Analytics approach, and will help you make effective use of visual tools to effectively analyze and interpret your data. Students learn how to model data using a proven Visual Analytics approach, and how to make effective visualizations. The instructor and students share their experiences in applying Visual Analytics to data modeling, analysis, and visualizations. IBM SPSS Statistics 20 with Amos is a leading statistics software that helps you plan, execute, and analyze data from a wide variety of sources.
