A novel in situ biological absorbent (SBS) has been constructed for ex situ DNA extraction from aqueous samples. The SBS contains a carbon steel mesh base with an immobilized biomass of the acid-producing bacteria Actinobacillus actinomycetemcomitans ATCC 33384. DNA was extracted from human blood by the use of this new biomaterial. The quality of DNA extracted from blood samples using the SBS was comparable to that obtained by a commercial kit. The SBS was also used for DNA extraction from saliva, urine, and human bone-cell cultures. The performance of the SBS was compared to that of a commercially available DNA extraction kit. The SBS resulted in cleaner and more concentrated DNA samples than the commercial kit. Thus, the SBS is a promising new biotechnology that can be used for extraction of DNA from a variety of aqueous samples.

Keyboard Macro Mapping in Keymacro is the easiest way to write beautiful music. The possibilities are endless. I'm writing lots of new stuff everyday and I'm very happy. For me, music is not just limited to only a few things. I want to understand everything that is music, especially where it comes from. My DAW is not only for work, it's also for pleasure. I don't want to be like my colleague that uses two applications to create music. I want to write great tracks in my DAW, not in my head. Keymacro is just a fun tool, but I can also use it professionally. The possibilities of mapping are huge, you can play with the placement, the pitch, the sequencer, all that stuff. You can write beautiful melodies with Keymacro or add new sounds. For example, you can make the delay of a kick drum a minor or major chord. You can even write the sounds yourself. All you have to do is to write what you want. To have a professional result, you have to understand what the software can do. A good DAW will let you do what you want, it's just that, if you want to use it that way, it needs to be powerful enough. Keymacro is powerful. It's a DAW that anyone can enjoy. With the release of his book, Power of Soul, in 1980, he popularized the term "power trio" to describe the sonic interplay between guitar, bass, and drums. His firm position on rock's emerging popularity brought him to the attention of Albert Grossman, manager of The Rolling Stones, who signed Davis as his producer and friend. Together they produced four albums that captured the rock scene's energy and enthusiasm for "lo-fi" sound. Within two years of leaving EMI, Davis launched his own label, J Records, and signed a host of top artists who are now synonymous with the cool. Few musicians have his credentials. Some of his awards include a Grammy, a Moby Award and a Special Tony Award. In 1997, Rolling Stone named Davis one of the "100 Greatest Artists of All Time." He continues to be a sought-after producer, clinician and lecturer. He was inducted into the Music Hall of Fame in 1994 and was also a guest lecturer at UC Berkeley. Previous winners include the Grand Pianos. Past recipients include the AVAM Piano Orchestra, the Boston Pops, and the Juilliard Orchestra. UDAITU UDAITU is an international guitar company.
