However, if you Business People Business People Currently the fastest growing industry in South Africa is the so-called Information Technology (IT) sector. And the IT sector in South Africa is the fastest growing IT sector in the world. The IT industry in South Africa is dominated by the service, software and creative industries. With about 15,000 companies registered with the South African Revenue Service (SARS), it seems the industry is big enough to require a leading organisation to oversee this industry, a leading organisation that is a member of the IT Association of SA (ITASA). This is where the ICT Business Chamber comes into play. The Chamber was established by the national government to lead and support the South African ICT sector. Its vision is to make a vital contribution to economic development, prosperity, competitiveness and societal transformation through the adoption of ICT as an enabler of prosperity, innovation and change, amongst other objectives. The Chamber says it has grown, organically, to be the leading association of business in the ICT industry in South Africa. Its various programs, activities, products and services are geared towards the development, growth and prosperity of the ICT industry in South Africa. The IT Associations of SA has many programs and activities available to help the ICT industry take off, with or without government support. Programs: Membership – The Association is open to companies that sell, or are planning to sell, IT products and services to South Africans or to anyone in South Africa. It has various programs for different types of member companies. Action Programme – All the companies active in the IT field become members of the Association. They participate in a broad variety of programs, including from time to time, the Action Program. The Action Program is geared towards raising awareness 3e33713323
