We studied the effect of intravenous immunoglobulin and antibiotics on the mortality of 83 paediatric patients with systemic infection and mental retardation. The clinical course and outcome of patients treated with intravenous immunoglobulin and antibiotics were similar to those of patients treated with antibiotics alone. Duration of symptoms did not influence the outcome. The mortality rate was comparable in the two groups and was mainly related to the underlying disease. In our experience, the use of intravenous immunoglobulin or antibiotics in patients with mental retardation and systemic infection did not decrease the mortality. Drawer with sewing and piecing Pattern Description The simplest version of this design is a pair of drawers with a central chest feature. All the pieces are cut from 1/2" fabric, except for the straps, which are cut from the remaining 1/4" fabric. I also gave the design a 3D look by turning the drawer under-side up and adding side panels to create a boxy effect. The entire front and back is a single piece of fabric, with the chest serving as a base. The small drawers are trimmed with ribbon, which is sewn into them using a small running stitch. The back of the inner drawer is also trimmed with ribbon, again using a running stitch. I decided to make each piece a different color, so that the ribbon became the pattern for all the appliques. To reinforce the two ribbon edges, I did a small running stitch along the top/back edge of the chest and on the bottom edge of the inner drawer.

Isaac Theodore, Appellant. No. CR-03-0144-PR, Supreme Court of Arizona, En Banc, December 9, 2003. *1133 Janet Napolitano, Attorney General, John L. Petersen, Chief Counsel, Robert A. Walsh, Phoenix, Attorneys for State of Arizona, Marvin Cherkowitz, Mona Mestas, Tucson, Attorneys for Isaac Theodore. OPINION MCGREGOR, Justice. ¶ 1 Isaac Theodore was convicted of first-degree murder and sentenced to death for the shooting death of his wife and the wounding of her young daughter. Theodore argues that the trial court improperly instructed the jury that Theodore was not entitled to a lesser included offense instruction on manslaughter. The manslaughter instruction suggested by Theodore is based on the "passion and provocation" manslaughter statute, which applies in cases in which the killing of another results from "a sudden quarrel or heat of passion." § 13-1103(A)(2), (B). Theodore argues that the trial court was required to instruct the jury on the definition of "heat of passion" provided in the second degree murder statute, which applies when a person kills another "under the influence of sudden passion engendered by a serious provocation" not likely to cause "a reasonable person to lose control of his or her normal self." § 13-1101(1), (2), I. ¶ 2 Theodore testified that when he entered his home, his wife Nicole was standing near her young daughter. Theodore testified that Nicole was "playing video games, wanting money, [and] wanted sex." Theodore stated that Nicole was calling him a "faggot" and told him 09e8f5149f
