

Chapter 24 - Energy Technology Innovation System (ETIS) policy. Marking. Labeling technologies are technologies used to individualize and identify energy resources, as well as to improve the use of energy. They allow organizations to use resources efficiently, generating the maximum amount of electricity at the lowest cost. This system creates a link between consumers and energy suppliers. The use of labeling and labeling technologies helps users to use their energy resource more efficiently and ultimately has a beneficial effect on energy savings and energy availability.
