What's New In?

Hello all, I'm rolling out a new service on If you're an author, poet or artist with books published or in production, you can now easily add the author's name to your books, when available. Currently working with over 300 artists, writers and publishers, more coming all the time. Please note: This service is free, and currently only offers full names. We're working on expanding to other variations, and adding a few neat features:

- When it's released, there will be an app for people to scan their books to add names to them.
- After being added to the database, you'll be automatically added to a submission form which allows you to add the name to your current book(s). You can then choose to submit the name to the scanner before shipping your books.
- If you're a writer, be ready for more people to be trying to find your book(s).
- We're working on better searching and a more complete set of options.

Assembly Date NOTE: Please be sure to check the Books section of our website before contacting me regarding the service. To add the names to your books, simply do the following: 1) Add an Assembly date to your books by scanning them (using the supplied form, here), and then check the box "add book name" 2) Add your name This should populate the Assembly date and book name in your book(s). You can see an example of this in action in the screenshot below. We're working on an iOS app for this, but if you can't wait you can get in touch with me for a code to run the service from your own server. Cheers, Andy Johnson Assembly Date We're an iPhone app company based in Brighton, UK. Started out making educational apps, many of which were featured on the Apple App Store. Making apps is fun, but doesn't pay the bills; and with my wife Laura, we decided to start a new business with a focus on trying to make things that matter. Over the years we've been able to build our own company, and our next goal is to sell enough apps that we can live well off of it, and work on
